POLITICAL.

The Way out of the Louisiana Trouble.

CHICAGO. March 27.—The Times' Washington special says Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, had an interview with the President yesterday. As regards the Louisiana case, he says there is an impression bordering on conviction among the President and his cabinet, that Nicholls nor Packard has legally the right to recognition as governor of Louisiana, because the State law requiring the vote for governor and lieutenant governor to be canvassed by the legislature has not been complied with in either case. The cabinet were thus led to the conclusion that the only legal way out of the trouble was the appointment of a commission to inquire specially into this question. He further thinks this course reasonably clear. The indication is that Hayes intends to act in accordance with the strictly legal bearings of the case, even to recommending that a new election be held. Judge Kelly reached here from Philadelphia to-night. He expressed to a friend the same opinion held by Senator Cockrell.

The Cabinet Sessions.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A special cabinet meeting began at noon to-day. Sessions have been held nearly every day for two weeks, Sundays excepted.

Hampton on his Travels.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28.—General Hampton, Attorney General Conner and Gen. Buttler reached here this morning. An immense crowd of people, accompanied by a band of music, met them at the depot, where a speech of welcome was made by Hon. A. M. Waddell. Gov. Hampton said he would ask no recognition at the hands of the President. He had been fairly elected by the people of South Carolina, and he believed that if the Democratic party administered the government of that State, peace, prosperity and happiness would follow.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., March 28.—Hampton and party passed this point about noon. At Timmondsville, Florence and Magnolia citizens turned out in great force and cheered enthusiastically for Hampton. Bands of music,

Mr. Foster—Exactly. We had no authority to make a compact binding Gov. Hayes. We distinctly stated the impropriety and indelicacy of making such a compact.

Reporter—What about the letter written to John Young Brown and Senator Gordon, by Matthews and yourself?

Foster—That letter was the result of a conversation I had with Brown in which he asked for written assurances for his future justification. He distinctly stated that he did not ask this as a condition of carrying out the provisions of the electoral bill; that he regarded that as a matter of personal honor, and no power could coerce him to do otherwise than faithfully stand by the provisions of the bill. He asked that the paper be signed by Matthews and himself, and be addressed to him and Senator Gordon. I expressed a willingness to accord with his wishes, and the paper was prepared, signed and delivered. I have no recollection of having any conversation with Senator Gordon on the subject of writing this letter.

Reporter—What was the tenor of that letter?

Foster—It was a statement by Matthews and myself as to what we believed would be the policy of President Hayes in dealing with the Southern question. It contained nothing more than was contained in my speech on the subject. We did not retain a copy of the letter and cannot give its exact contents.

Reporter—What is your opinion as to the object of the publication of the false reports regarding this matter?

Foster—Its object is evidently to weaken and cripple the administration in dealing with this Southern question, and to disaffect Southern men who are working in good faith to uphold and sustain the President.

The Order of Caucasians.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—A number of prominent citizens, representatives of the press and officers of the Order of Caucasians, met last night to examine the Constitution, manuals and instructions of that order, by invitation of the secretary of the executive committee, P. S. Dorney. The investigation failed to show anything resembling the statements recently published, purporting to be extracts from the Constitution of the order, and enjoining an unlawful course towards Chinamen, but proved the order to be virtually a vast labor exchange, seeking to remedy the Chinese evil by pledging the patronage of the brotherhood for the purpose of using the order as a labor exchange.

The Laborers' Union.

Later advices from Chico show, by the confession of John Slaughter, that the recent murders, incendiarisms and other outrages in that vicinity, were concocted in due form by the association known as the "Laborers' Union," where had also been discussed the question of

of decided benefit to wheat where not too far gone.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Turkish Armistice.

LONDON, March 27.—The Standard's Berlin dispatch says it is reported from Constantinople that the Porte has resolved not to further prolong the armistice with Montenegro.

A Better Outlook.

A Vienna correspondent of the Times says: In diplomatic circles the condition of affairs is not considered quite so desperate. Ignatieff's communications since his arrival in Vienna seem to have strengthened this confidence. The difference about disarmament, which is now the only obstacle to settlement, seems to be rather a difference of form than an essential one. England is blamed for pressing too hardly upon Russia in this matter, seeing that Russia could not consent, for honor's sake, to have disarmament imposed upon her by Europe as a condition. General Ignatieff is said to be, notwithstanding what may be achieved by further negotiations, of this opinion, which caused him to visit Berlin, where he will remain several days. After Russia's outspoken declarations concerning the interpretation which she would put upon the General's assurance to disarm, the powers are no longer able to settle the matter by passing over the disarmament in silence and trusting to Russia's disarming immediately the signing of the protocol. There is little chance, either, of Russia's consenting to disarm simultaneously with Turkey, as she would consider herself insulted by being placed on a par with Turkey. The idea now is to press the conclusion of peace with Montenegro and get the Porte to take spontaneously the first step in disarming. Those who favor this idea seem confident that Russia will do all in her power to facilitate the understanding, by counseling Montenegro to moderate her demands. Some also have the hope that the Turkish idea on the subject of disarmament is less firm than that of England's, but this hope is illusory. Nobody will grudge continental diplomacy success, if it

LETTER FROM HON. JESSE APPLEGATE.

CLEAR LAKE, Cal., March 21, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

About the first of the year I received two slips cut from your paper, one "a card" signed Jas. H. Howard, the other a letter signed W. H. Odell, and dated Nov. 1st and 10th, respectively. As this was the first intimation I had that a letter of mine had been published and replied to in your city, and as it was too late to rejoin while the subject was fresh in the memory of the public, so far as I am personally concerned the matter might have here rested. But while the installation of President Hayes still leaves my own defense a matter of choice, it makes the exposure of my adversary a public duty. Mr. Odell, as one of his electors, will doubtless be gratefully remembered by the new President, and coming before him with this honorable endorsement of the people of Oregon and a fair record as a public officer under the late administration, he is very likely to assign him a place of honor and profit under his.

Now, I do not believe Mr. Odell worthy of trust, nor deserving of honor, and wish you to print in the OREGONIAN the facts which have caused me so to believe, not so much for the edification of your general readers as for the information of Mr. Odell himself. For whether you print my statement or not, it shall be placed in the hands of the President whenever Mr. Odell's claims to office are to be considered, and before the Senate when his appointment to office is to be confirmed. Therefore, if you wish him to have notice of the charges against him, and where and before whom he must defend himself, you will print this letter for his benefit.

If you wish this administration to avoid the almost fatal error of the last, the appointment of bad men to office, you will aid it in every way you can to place honest and efficient men only in public trusts. The only

GOVERNMENT BY COMPROMISE.

The New York Tribune takes the sensible view of the Southern problem as it is now presented, and the view which, were it made the basis of settlement, would no doubt be satisfactory to the country generally, and especially to the South, who, though not exclusively concerned, are more deeply interested because more directly affected than those of the North. That paper says it would be a satisfactory settlement if the President should call off the troops "sending Packard and Chamberlain about their business, and enabling the Conservatives to take full possession of the governments of Louisiana and South Carolina. To some hasty reformers such a course seems not only right but easy. As a general rule, a prompt act of justice is preferable to a deliberate compromise, and if we consider only the political side of the question we should certainly wish to see the President or Congress decide the long and scandalous contest at the South by immediate action in [illegible] of the right side, whichever that [illegible] be, and a stern, unhesitating, final [illegible] of the other. But there is no [illegible] in politics. Statesmen must deal with affairs according to their means, and when a conflict has gone on as long as [illegible] at the South, the boundaries of right and wrong become so indistinct that a theoretically just decision is often practically impossible.

[illegible] two States in question it is clear [illegible] has been for several years nothing corresponding to the American idea of popular representative government. [illegible] certain officials sustained by [illegible] force from the outside, and although they profess to have been elected [illegible] majority of the voters, they can hardly be said to derive their powers from the consent of the governed. Whenever the [illegible] has been withdrawn they [illegible] unable to sustain themselves [illegible]. Nearly all the intelligent, [illegible] public-spirited, and tax-paying [illegible] are inflexibly opposed to [illegible] merely quarreling with their [illegible] which would be a small matter, [illegible] their right to hold office, and [illegible] any recognition or obedience [illegible] such as may be extorted at [illegible] of the bayonet. If it is true [illegible] numerical majority voted for these [illegible] the numerical majority, is too [illegible] to give either moral or [illegible] its own representa[illegible] supply a safe basis for [illegible].

[illegible] up the Southern Re[illegible] administrations by main force [illegible] years, and they got no [illegible] legs, but rather weaker. We cannot continue that [illegible] experience has so fully [illegible] the futility. But the oppo[illegible] by no means clear before us. [illegible] the Republicans of the [illegible] the party through [illegible] will report are entitled to [illegible] merely a sentimental [illegible] are entitled to Federal [illegible] the letter and spirit of the [illegible] other citizens are, and not [illegible]. The trouble lies in the difficulty [illegible] which of the contestants [illegible] in the right, or [illegible] more in the wrong. [illegible] carpet-bagger's title, and [illegible] the table of votes [illegible] his returning board. [illegible] with the bulldozer and he [illegible] showing you the forged affidavits [illegible] votes are canceled, and [illegible] Republican major[illegible] "[illegible] returns" of [illegible] with the aid of a pen[illegible] rubber. None of the [illegible] can show a clear title. [illegible] rival legislatures was elected [illegible] or organized without vio[illegible]. Whichever way the President [illegible] will find his road obstructed, [illegible] his sanction neither to [illegible] Packard, neither to Chamberlain [illegible] Hampton, without seeming [illegible] government stamp upon an out[illegible].

[illegible] dispatches indicate that [illegible] not see his way clear [illegible] of either of the rival [illegible] Louisiana. The proposition [illegible] the troops, without any fur[illegible] attempt to adjust affairs, leaving the [illegible] to fight it out, might be well [illegible] if nobody were involved [illegible] but the rival governors [illegible] who stand by as their [illegible]. It would at least be [illegible] to the latest theory of [illegible], since it would be the [illegible] of the Darwinian idea of the [illegible] of the fittest as the foundation of [illegible] government. It is said that all [illegible] should be founded upon nat[illegible], and the adoption of the Darwinian principle in settling the Louisiana [illegible] the simplest thing in the world, [illegible] the "fittest" would "survive" in [illegible] order. But unfortunately for popular [illegible] popular government as [illegible] understood in this country has in [illegible] some elements in conflict with Darwinism, and those elements are of the greatest importance in this Southern problem. Our government has an underlying principle of taking care of the [illegible]—protecting them against the rapacity of the strong. The "fittest" must not survive by drawing and quartering all those who oppose their survival. The poor and helpless of the South must not be trodden into the dust by those who, though numerically weaker, are stronger in all that gives strength to society. This point must be guarded by the President, in any settlement of the difficulty, or his effort will prove worse than a failure. A blunder in this case may prove "worse than a crime."

An international copyright commission has been sitting in London, at which some American publishing houses were represented. The object of the commission was the discussion of an international copyright system by which literary property produced in one country may be protected from piracy in other countries. There has been constant and increasing complaint on this subject among authors for a considerable time. Mr. Charles Reade has been working up the case at a rather loud rate for the past three or four years, and others have seconded his complaints. Such a law would be just, and a few authors would perhaps derive some advantage from it, but their number is by no means so great as one would suppose. In the abundance of book makers there are but few whose works offer any temptation to literary thieves, or would sell in a foreign market with or without copyright. A dozen or so of commanding intellects force their way into notice beyond the land they live in, and would be benefitted by a law to protect their literary property wherever found; but in the vast majority of cases the greatest sufferer from this species of larceny is the thief, who, wanting the soundness of judgment which pertains to honest minds, takes upon himself the expense of publishing books he has no right to, only to find that the people do not want them.

An exchange expresses the opinion that there are about forty millions of people who are longing for a regenerated civil service, for established order in the South, and for an honest currency, and so long as these ends are aimed at they care very little who hold the offices. There are about forty thousand citizens whose bones are aching to serve their country, but they refuse to worry themselves about the currency so long as they draw a salary in legal tender. They don't object to a little disorder—just enough to keep things lively—and they are willing that the civil service should reform itself from the inside. President Hayes seems to have made up his mind that he will not administer the government exclusively in the interest of the latter class.

The Mountain Meadows massacre is traced to the door of the temple in which Brigham Young officiates. Wells, his first officer, appears to have issued the order for the destruction of the emigrants. There is no likelihood that any of the principals to the murder will ever be brought to justice, but the facts which have been brought to light in connection with the trial and execution of John D. Lee, leave no room to doubt that he was merely the agent of the chief of the Mormon church. If anything were needed to convince the world that the whole establishment of the Mormon Church is an organized system of robbery and murder, it is supplied by this case.

Gov. Packard has a hard time of it with his legislative rump. Just when he gets a quorum and is ready to proceed to business, some of his members desert and join themselves to the legislative rump of Nicholls. Yesterday three went over, and were, no doubt, received in the Nicholls rump with unrestrained manifestations of delight.

A STANDING REWARD OF $600.

To prevent, as far as possible, the robbing of mails, valuable packages, express matter, etc., from coaches, stages, trains or other conveyances, and to add security to life, person and property, the legislatures of three of the Pacific States and one Territory, have enacted a law offering a reward for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons engaged in such an attempt, whether successful or not. Such legal enactments have been made by the legislatures of California, Oregon, Nevada and Montana. Substantially, the laws read as follows:

Section .. The governor shall offer a standing reward of $300 for the arrest of each person engaged in the robbery of, or in the attempt to rob any person or persons upon, or having in charge in whole, or in part, any stage coach, wagon, railroad train, or other conveyance, engaged at the time in carrying passengers, or any private conveyance within this State, and for the arrest of each person engaged in the robbery of, or in the attempt to rob any person or persons upon any highway in the State of Nevada; the reward to be paid to the person or persons making the arrest, immediately upon the conviction of the person or persons so arrested; but no reward shall be paid except after such conviction.

Mr. John J. Valentine, general superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express, issues a circular, in which he says: "In addition to State or Territorial reward offered, Wells, Fargo & Co. will pay $300 for the arrest and conviction of each person engaged in robbing their express." Those proposing to engage in the foot-pad business will thus see that a standing reward of $600 is offered for each of their heads.

SHARP PRACTICE.

PORTLAND, March 28, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It could scarcely be supposed that any one would be influenced by the communication of the city superintendent, which appeared in your columns this morning, to vote for Mr. Morgan, as school director; and yet it is attempted by that gentleman's friends, to make it appear that since Mr. King is out of the way, there can no longer be any objection to Mr. Morgan. Any one with half an eye ought to see through this dodge immediately. The object is to secure the election of Mr. Morgan without that gentleman's having made any promises, so that when the time for electing teachers comes around, Mr. King can be compelled (?) to accept the "Superintendentness" instead of a "principalness," as he says he had to do against his wish in 1875. Taxpayers and citizens must not be deceived. In any event it is proposed if Mr. Morgan can by any means whatever be elected, to have the teachers who have honestly expressed themselves in this contest removed from their positions, and then, the way being clear, the city superintendent can exercise the purchase he has made, upon the directors, and have things all his own way.

A radical reform in the management of our schools at the present time is certainly an absolute necessity. Any one taking the trouble to read Mr. King's letter must have this opinion indelibly impressed upon his mind. If we would sustain the schools at a high standard, we must elect Mr. Killin. This contest has developed the fact beyond question that Mr. Morgan and the city superintendent are so indissolubly joined in interest, that neither can be sustained without the other.

VOTER.

A QUESTION OF TASTE.

PORTLAND, March 28, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I desire to call the attention of the school directors to a custom in school elections which is hardly in accordance with good manners, and certainly against the spirit, at least, of the law. I refer to the custom of directors, and especially those who are candidates for re-election, sitting with the judges during the progress of the election. The Code says, page 510, "that such election shall be by ballot, and that judges of such election shall be appointed by the directors of such district, who shall sit at the time and place appointed to receive and canvass the votes." Not the directors but the judges shall sit. At the last election, Capt. Ainsworth was the only candidate, and so it made no particular difference, but I suggest that in future it would at least be better taste for the directors, and especially when one of them is a candidate for re-election, not to sit with the judges during the time of voting; nor afterwards, unless, as in other elections, the opposing candidate is invited to be present. And allow me further to say that I suppose the directors will see to it, that a friend of Mr. Killin is a judge as well as one of Mr. Morgan.

ALL RIGHT.

OPEN QUESTIONS FOR MR. MORGAN.

PORTLAND, March 28, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In a purchased (price $10) evening sheet the teacher of the Third-street school says that a filthy cellar containing about two feet of standing water, emits no unwholesome odors; I suppose she also thinks that the little "shantie" used by the 103 little boys and girls in her school, is also amply sufficient. The school is in an out of the way place, but if people would take the trouble to look at this neglected school it will show them that gross mismanagement exists.

Now for the question: Did not Mr. Morgan vote for a favorite of his as Principal of the High School when Capt. Ainsworth and Mr. Ladd elected Prof. Johnson to that place in July last? He cannot deny it, for I have proof that he so stated it.

Did not Mr. Morgan prevail on Mr. Ladd not to resign before he left the State last fall?

HOOD RIVER ITEMS.

HOOD RIVER, Wasco Co., March 20, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A few items from this valley may not be uninteresting to your readers. Farmers have very generally commenced their spring work, plowing and seeding. Peas, radishes lettuce, &c., planted in the garden, are up, growing like weeds, and altogether the crops give promise of being the largest ever raised in the valley.

The Hood River Water Supply Co.'s ditch progresses slowly, though the persistence they exhibit shows a determination to complete the first section, which will afford them sufficient water for the present.

THE NEW SAWMILL

In course of erection will be in running order in a few weeks. The enterprising proprietors, Messrs. Smith & Potter, propose to sell their lumber at the mill at $10 per M, or will saw logs delivered at the mill for one-half, or at $5 per M. This affords the farmer who is unable to pay cash an easy way to procure his lumber. This, taken in connection with the new water ditch, will form quite an inducement to parties seeking a home here. Grain sowed in the fall and winter does well without irrigation, but for vegetables and small fruits, it is necessary. A number of

REVENGE OF RAIN-IN-THE-FACE.

In that desolate land and lone,
Where the Big Horn and Yellowstone
Roar down the mountain path,
By their fires the Sioux Chiefs
Muttered their woes and griefs
And the menace of their wrath.

"Revenge!" cried Rain-in-the-Face,
"Revenge upon all the race
Of the white chief with yellow hair!"
And the mountains dark and high
From their crags re-echoed the cry
Of his anger and despair.

In the meadow spreading wide
By woodland and riverside
The Indian village stood;
All was silent as a dream
Save the rushing of the stream
And the blue jay in the wood.

In his war paint and his beads,
Like a bison among the reeds,
In ambush the Sitting Bull
Lay with three thousand braves
Crouched in the clefts and caves,
Savage, unmerciful!

Into the fatal snare
The White Chief with yellow hair
And his three hundred men
Dashed headlong, sword in hand;
But of that gallant band
Not one returned again.

The sudden darkness of death
Overwhelmed them like the breath
And smoke of a furnace fire;
By the river's bank, and between
The rocks of the ravine,
They lay in their bloody attire.

But the foemen fled in the night,
And Rain-in-the-Face, in his flight,
Uplifted high in air
As a ghastly trophy, bore
The brave heart, that beat no more,
Of the White Chief with yellow hair.

Whose was the right and the wrong?
Sing it, O funeral song,
With a voice that is full of tears,
And say that our broken faith
Wrought all this ruin and scathe,
In the Year of a Hundred Years.

—H. W. Longfellow, in Youth's Companion.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Walla Walla Statesman says a young [illegible] George Barner, at Schelworth's [illegible] on Mill Creek, met with a serious [illegible] last Wednesday. He was working [illegible] with a man named Gardner, [illegible] of the accident was in a stooping [illegible] at the end of a log on which [illegible] at work with an axe. While [illegible] the axe glanced, and, flying [illegible] bounced along the log [illegible] in Mr. Barber's [illegible] the knee cap, cutting the [illegible] indenting the thigh bone. Dr. [illegible] immediately sent for and [illegible] wound, and at last accounts [illegible] comfortable.

[illegible] Owinge, the newly appointed [illegible] Territory, has arrived with his family and entered [illegible] his office. From the Courier [illegible] Owinge is a native of [illegible] the army during the re[illegible] to Colorado in 1867, and [illegible] occupied many important [illegible] among them, register of the [illegible], special agent of the [illegible] and assistant superin[illegible] [illegible] service. We welcome [illegible] the territory and hope that [illegible] extend him a cordial greeting. [illegible] who has long been the [illegible] and faithfully dis[illegible] of his office retires to [illegible] he will devote his [illegible] profession.

IN MEMORIAM.

[illegible] of Jefferson Lodge, No. [illegible], held March 24, 1877, the [illegible] and resolutions were [illegible]:

[illegible] beloved brother, David John[illegible] [illegible] this earthly tabernacle to [illegible] eternal in the heavens, [illegible] fullness of His grace and [illegible] it was better to be [illegible] body and to be present with [illegible] cheerful compliance he obeyed [illegible] of the Grand Master of the [illegible], March 10, 1877, beloved [illegible] unassuming manners, [illegible] character, and all the virtues [illegible] a good man and Mason;

[illegible] Jefferson Lodge, No. 33, has [illegible] effective member, one who [illegible] the cause of truth and [illegible] of our beloved institution, [illegible] ready to practice the great[illegible] "charity"—we therefore [illegible] his loss but repine not at the will [illegible] Master, knowing that our loss is [illegible].

[illegible] we tender our very warmest [illegible] bereaved widow and children, deprived of a loving and true [illegible] and indulgent father, [illegible] to the loving care of [illegible] "I will be a husband to the [illegible] father to the fatherless."

[illegible] in memory of our deceased [illegible] room be draped in mourning [illegible] time.

[illegible] the above preamble and resolutions [illegible] records of the lodge, and [illegible] to the widow of [illegible] brother and a copy to the Oregon Statesman and Albany Democrat.

J. C. CAMPBELL,
JACOB CONSER,
Committee.

[illegible], Sec'y.

HAYES' SUCCESSOR.

[From the Dayton, Ohio, Journal.]

[illegible] has a "record," and one exceedingly creditable to him. He entered the [illegible] during the rebellion at [illegible] lieutenant of the [illegible] O. V. I. In 1864 he had [illegible] rank of Colonel of the Fourth United States Colored Volunteers, [illegible] was given him for gallant [illegible] services. After the battle of [illegible] he was breveted Brigadier, and afterwards Major General, "for gallant and meritorious services." After the war he was appointed Captain of the Twenty-fourth U. S. [illegible] was ordered to the frontiers of [illegible], he remained on duty during ten [illegible]. Last fall he was ordered to [illegible], Ohio, barracks on recruiting [illegible] for two years, but a few days afterwards was specially detailed, on account of his [illegible] and the good reputation for prudence he had established, to service in South [illegible]. After the election he returned to his post at Columbus, and was invited by [illegible] Hayes to accompany him to Washington, where at the request of the President, he was detailed to his present position, without solicitation by himself or that of any of his friends. This, we take it, is a pretty fair [illegible] for a man in his thirty-fourth year. No officer of his rank stands better in army [illegible].

THE PRESIDENT EASY IN HIS MIND.—Mr. Nordhoff writes from Washington to the Herald: The President, according to the reports of his friends, seems to be quite easy in his mind. He believes he is right, and thinks he will not fail of support somewhere. He has an admirable temper, and does not scare or worry, and the people who have come near him here say they are convinced that he means what he says. He confers with Democrats as freely and readily as with Republicans, holding that he is President of the whole country, and telling the Democrats who have called upon him that he is glad to see them, ready and willing to listen to them, and wishes them to come to the White House as freely as Republicans.

Mr. Walter, of the London Times, and M.P., continues to do good in the world. He recently presided at a temperance conference at [illegible] and strongly advocated the brewing of a lighter and less heady beer, resembling [illegible] of Germany, and the establishment [illegible] shops on the conti[illegible] [illegible]

Monetary affairs in the local market are still quiet without any special depression. A fair line of business is being done at the banks, and the legitimate inquiry though not coming fully up to the supply which might be made available to meet, nevertheless shows some increase. The several important local improvements to be undertaken this spring, in addition to the financial aid which will be required to carry forward the extensive operations connected with the fishing interests of the State, and the wool trade are expected to materially augment the demand for funds, and give employment to a good deal of capital now lying idle. The call from those in the wheat trade is now very limited. The regular monthly collection day now drawing near is expected to develope a little greater scarcity in the amount of money in general circulation than was noticed last month.

For some time past the London silver market has been very dull, and during the last few days a serious decline has taken place. At the end of December, 1875, the price stood at 56½d, whence a rapid fall occurred until July, 1876, 46¾d was touched. A sharp reaction ensued, and early in December, 1876, the quotation was 58½d, the highest price for upward of two years. At the close of 1876 the figure reached was 56¾d, and on March 1 1877, 56¼d. It was quoted to-day at 54¼d, notwithstanding that heavy withdrawals are reported to have been made from this market for shipment to New York.

The Tonnage Question.

As affecting the interests of trade here, but few questions are of more importance than that of the future tonnage supply. The present rates on the Atlantic coast are very low and some of our exchanges thence, expressing themselves on the situation in this regard, give a glowing picture of the outlook for ships; a fact which would seem to lead to an inference that this coast will continue to be looked to as a good field for freights and that a large number of vessels may come hither seeking. Other exchanges from the East state that on account of the large number of marine disasters great activity is expected in the Eastern shipyards, the facilities for shipbuilding being unusually favorable. Just now ships are glad to get from $10 to $12 per ton for dead weight from domestic Atlantic ports for San Francisco, despite the fact that vessels now here are getting no higher rates outward. Small vessels for Australia are accepting 27s 6d to 30s from New York for miscellaneous cargoes. It is said that the British ship Marion, 1,200 tons, has accepted $6 per ton from New York for Valparaiso.

New York Markets.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The severe storm had a depressing effect on the markets, though breadstuffs were held higher. Hides less active, and prices sustained. The stock of hops is excessive, and the market dull. The best offer for new California, 14c; wool quiet; California unsettled and prices weak; refined sugars quiet and easy, with some demand for the California markets. Teas steady with more firmness for Japan. Borax unchanged; petroleum firmer at slight advance for cases at 22@22½; spirits turpentine dull at 39; rosin firmer, common 2 10@2 15. The dry goods market is feverish and unsettled. An auction sale of Ancona and Gloucester prints was held to-day and well attended; prices realized for Ancona fancy prints ranged from 5 to 5½c per yard, an average decrease of one cent from prices ruling immediately previous to the sale. Gloucester brands were also sold at an average decrease of one cent per yard.

San Francisco Markets.

Liverpool wheat market to-day—Average California, 10s 7d@11s; club, 10s 10d@11s 3d.

The Bulletin this evening prints a carefully compiled table showing the stocks of wheat in warehouses in the principal Eastern and Canadian cities, as compared with 1876. The figures show a decrease for this year of five and a half million bushels. On the other hand the stock of barley is larger in nearly every instance. The Produce Exchange will take stock of grain in this State next week.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 28.—Wool quiet; manufacturers purchasing only for immediate wants. Medium and X Ohio and Pennsylvania 40@42, XX 44@46, choice XX and XXX 48; Michigan and Wisconsin range from [illegible], combing and delaine sold up [illegible] pulled [illegible] super and [illegible] 30@45, including very choice Eastern and Maine; fall California can only be disposed of at low figures, and nothing further has been done in spring.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship City of Chester on her maiden trip from San Francisco, reached her berth in this port at a late hour this evening.

The Geo. W. Elder will leave San Francisco for Portland on Saturday next.

The barkentine J. A. Falkinburg is taking on lumber at the North Portland Steam mills.

A late San Francisco exchange says: "Our freight market has remained dull and inactive during the week and freights have now reached a lower point than for many years. Under the circumstances it is impossible for us to quote rates for no one can say with certainty what figure would be low enough to induce parties to charter a vessel. We can only state that a first-class wooden ship has accepted £2 to Cork, U. K., and that a moderate sized A 1 iron ship was closed at £2 to Liverpool. These are the latest transactions, and indicate the state of the market better than it can be expressed in any other way. Outside business continues depressed."
